

Pre-Announcement

The aims of the symposium are:

- To inform academics, industrialists, teachers and the consumer for the philosophy of Green Chemistry, its role for sustainable development and the necessity to be infused in education, research and technology.
- To show the research in Green Chemistry and Green Chemical Technology that is carried out in Greece.
- To bring together chemists, chemical engineers and scientists from other disciplines and show that interaction and collaboration can lead our society to sustainability through Green Chemistry and Green Chemical Technology.
- To show that Green Chemistry and Green Chemical Technology can deal successfully with global environmental problems giving sustainable

Topics - Sessions:

- Green chemistry in Research
- Green chemistry in Industry
- Green chemistry in Education
- Green chemistry for Society
- Green chemistry for Sustainable Development

Special Topics:

- Alternative synthesis
- Design of safer chemicals
- Use of alternative, non-toxic solvents
- Design of energy efficient technologies and processes
- Catalysis - Biocatalysis
- Production of energy, fuels and chemicals from renewable sources/raw materials
- Design of biodegradable products
- Design of safer pesticides
- Treatment and special applications of agricultural wastes
